PLEASE KEEP IN MIND

- Visitors of Knubble Bay Camp and Beal Island are asked to abide by the guiding principles of “Leave No Trace.” Please respect these environments by using carry-in, carry-out practices.
- A Georgetown fire permit (207-371-2375) is required for a fire on Beal Island. Fires must be located in the stone fire ring located on the beach. Within Knubble Bay Cabin, no propane or kerosene lanterns, and no candles are permitted.
- Pets are not allowed at either location.
- The parking area serves visitors to both Beal Island and Knubble Bay Camp, visitors should be careful not to block access/egress of other vehicles.
- Upon registration, renters will receive a user’s guide for both facilities.

DIRECTIONS

Follow US Rt. 1 through Bath across the Kennebec River Bridge. Just beyond the bridge, turn right onto Rt. 127 south (towards Reid State Park). Proceed 5.8 miles to Robinhood Road. Take a left onto Robinhood Road, proceed 1 mile, turn left onto Webber Road. If you have passed Robinhood Meeting House Restaurant, you have gone too far. Follow Webber Road 1.2 miles and turn right onto Jewett Road. Follow Jewett Road, turning right at each fork, approximately 0.6 miles turn left at the AMC KBC sign.

AMC Knubble Bay Camp & Beal Island
www.amckbc.org
KNUBBLE BAY CAMP FACILITIES

The new post-and-beam cabin at Knubble Bay Camp is not only a delight to the eye, but a testament to the Appalachian Mountain Club's mindful use of natural resources. No electricity or running water is available at the camp. However, solar and wind energy powered lights and a wood stove provide warmth and ambiance. A hand pump is available for potable, fresh water. There are two in-door composting toilets and the cabin is fully handicapped accessible.

The kitchen is stocked with all the necessary utensils, and features a gas-powered refrigerator, stove and oven. The large first-floor living space looks out onto the bay, and several sleeping areas accommodate 15 guests.

Outside, stairs and a handicapped accessible ramp lead to the beach, the launch site for Beal Island and on-water exploration of the area. The cabin is available for overnight rental year-round, and is offered to one party at a time.

Reservations information: 603.466.2727

---

BEAL ISLAND FACILITIES

A nautical mile from the beach at Knubble Bay Camp (about a 20-minute paddle), Beal Island has been a favorite destination for campers for generations. Relax on the sandy beach, watch osprey and seals, eagles and porcupines. A trail circumnavigates the island, revealing breathtaking views of the rocky coastline, as well as old stone foundations from residents long forgotten. Some of the fastest currents on the East Coast envelop the island at certain times in the tide cycle, a phenomenon that is best observed from the safety of land.

A large grassy area and pine grove offer comfortable tenting spots. Two wooden tables are situated on the beach, and all fires are restricted to the rock ring at the water’s edge. The island has an outhouse, but water must be transported from the hand pump at Knubble Bay Camp. The island is available for overnight rental from April 1 to November 1 and is offered to up to two parties and up to 30 campers.

Reservations information: 603.466.2727

---

KNUBBLE BAY CAMP & BEAL ISLAND KAYAKING WEEKENDS

Several times a year, from May through November, the Knubble Bay Camp and Beal Island volunteer committee offers kayaking weekends based at the cabin or the island. The emphasis is on good company, good food, and good times.

Weekends are organized around an all-day paddle Saturday and half-day paddle Sunday. Breakfasts and supper are provided by the committee, as well as guided explorations into some of the area’s most fascinating spots.

Though some trips are restricted to more advanced paddlers, others are open to all levels of experience. All weekends are led by volunteer AMC members, not certified guides. Advanced registration, health information and liability waivers are required.

Trip dates and descriptions may be obtained by visiting our website www.amckbc.org.

---

REGISTRATION & RESERVATION POLICIES

Knubble Bay Camp is rented to one party at a time. Beal Island is rented to no more than two parties at a time. Reservation forms, cancellation policies and additional information are available at the Appalachian Mountain Club website (www.outdoors.org) or by calling 603.466.2727.